Why attend

Culture shapes how decisions are made, how people behave when no one is watching and whether strategy succeeds. This course gives leaders practical tools to diagnose their current organisational culture, define the culture needed to deliver strategy and lead a structured transformation. Participants explore cultural models, assessment methods, the role of leaders and symbols, aligning systems and processes with desired behaviours, and measuring cultural change over time.

Many transformation programmes fail because the underlying culture does not change. This course helps you understand your culture objectively, identify the few behaviours that matter most and use proven levers to shift culture in a lasting way.

Professional Problems This Course Is Designed to Solve

- Difficulty translating subject knowledge into practical workplace decisions.
- Inconsistent approaches to the activities covered in the course outline.
- Lack of a structured plan for applying and reviewing new skills.

Course methodology

The course uses culture diagnostic tools, case studies of culture transformations, group workshops, leadership reflection exercises and development of a culture change roadmap.

Course objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:
- Explain what organisational culture is and how it affects performance
- Diagnose the current culture using qualitative and quantitative methods
- Define the target culture and critical behaviours aligned with strategy
- Use leadership, systems and symbols as levers of culture change
- Plan and lead a culture transformation programme
- Measure and sustain cultural change

Target audience

This course is suitable for:
- Senior leaders and executives
- HR directors and organisational development professionals
- Transformation and change managers
- Heads of department leading culture initiatives
- Internal communication leaders

Course content

Target competencies
